

50 Ways To Get A Girl To Chase You

By

Dating Logic

1. Don't Always Be Available

Try not to always be at her beck and call. She calls you and you always answer. She texts you and you respond right away. She asks you to do something with her because her friend got sick and you agree. You have to avoid always being there when she wants you. Avoid always responding to that text or answering that call or hanging out with her because she had no one else. The more you make yourself unavailable, the more she thinks of you and wonders where you are. That makes her want to chase you.

2. Talk To Other Girls Around Her

Make sure that you develop a habit of talking to other girls and being able to be comfortable as you do it. She has to see how comfortable you are around other girls. Make those girls laugh as you interact. Let them have fun when you talk to them. The more she sees that, the more she wants to be one of those girls because you clearly know how to make them happy.

3. Make More Female Girl Friends

Start making as many female friends as you can. Don't just make friends with girls you want to date or you are interested in. Make more girl friends whether you find them attractive or not. The more girls you know, the more credibility you have as a person and your reputation grows. She notices and wonders what it would be like to be your friend. She wonders why you haven't made any effort to make her your friend. This makes her think about you often as she starts trying to get your attention.

4. Make More Guy Friends

Your social proof can work wonders in making a girl chase you. The more you make friends with guys and become better known, the higher your social proof and validation. Most girls are social creatures and tend to notice when a guy is popular among his peers. It makes them realize that you are admired and thereby chasing you may raise their social status as well.

5. Showcase Your Talents

If you have a talent, let it be known and show it. Whether your talent is in music, technology, art, etc, let people see it. The more people are aware of your talent, the more you will get their attention. A girl appreciates a gifted guy and would typically be curious about what else he is good at. If it is a talent that she also shares, she feels an instant connection with you and would be even more tempted to chase you.

6. Be Dress Savvy

Look good. Really take care of how you dress when you go out of your home. When you dress well, you are that much more attractive because so many guys just throw on a t-shirt and shorts or jeans when they head out without much thought. However, when you take your time to select the right colors and the right fit for your clothes, as well as your shoes, you will grab her attention. She wants to know who you are and what makes you so different from the other guys.

7. Be Confident

Be self-assured of who you are and what you are about. Speak and carry yourself with confidence. It means keeping your head up and shoulders up. It means speaking your mind. It means taking the lead without having to be asked. You should develop this air of confidence because she will love it. Girls are incredibly attracted to guys who are confident and chase them often.

8. Be Cocky

Being cocky is not for everyone but it works like a charm when it comes to getting a girl to chase you. You don't have to overdo it or even make it a part of your personality if this isn't who you are. However, you can still show moments of pride. Taking pride in your achievements and not being afraid to show it instead of acting like it meant nothing. You don't have to be cocky all the time but you can show signs of it from time to time. A girl is attracted to this kind of behavior in decent doses but not too much.

9. Be Active On Social Media

Social media has become one of the most popular places that people meet and ultimately start dating each other. If you are active on social media, it gives a girl a sense of how social and interactive you are. When she observes how well you act on social media and how engaging you are, she may be unable to keep herself from wanting to interact with you. The more she notices that you can handle so many other people that you have as friends or fans on social media, the more she wants to be a part of your world.

10. Have An Active Lifestyle

Have a life that is full of activities. A girl is more likely to chase a guy when she observes that he has a lot going on in his life. When your lifestyle is filled with hobbies, friends, social events, travelling, personal development and so on, she is attracted to that. It means that you don't have that much time to sit around waiting on her to notice you or acknowledge you. That makes you a catch to a girl because it means that she has to work to get your attention.

11. Make Girls Laugh

You should keep girls laughing. This is where you separate yourself from many guys. When a girl knows that every time she is around you, you will make her laugh, she wants to be around you more. You should only do this naturally. Don't feel like you always have to put on a show. However, do work on making girls laugh when you are around them because it makes them want to constantly be around you and ultimately chase you.

12. Get Angry

You don't have to take this overboard. However, try not to always contain your anger. If you are feeling it, show it. Be reasonable. Don't go overboard. However, if something rubs you the wrong way or upsets you, get angry within reason. Girls tend to align this kind of behavior with machismo. As long as your anger is reasonable and not directed at her, she feels compelled to be around your masculine energy.

13. Make Fun Of Her

You have to be very careful with this. Making fun of her in this way would be by bringing her back down to earth. You can critique something she said or something she does. However, do it in a playful way. It can be offhanded in that you could give her a compliment while also making fun of her at the same time. Don't make it insulting. Keep it light and funny. Your goal is to make her smile or even get a little uncomfortable but in a good way. Not in an "I hate you" way.

14. Invite Others But Leave Her Out

When you invite others to do things with you, leave her out of it. These are people that she already knows and may be friendly with. The more you leave her out of events you invite other people she knows to, the more she wonders if you like her. She hears about how much fun these people have at your events or while hanging with you and she feels left out. She starts going out of her way to be nice to you so that you notice her and give her an invite. This is how the chasing begins.

15. Have A "Whatever" Attitude

Don't be so invested in whether a girl likes you or not. You should project an attitude of not caring if a girl approves of you or not. Girls are very good at sensing when a guy could care less. They are very attracted to guys who don't care what other girls think of them. You would appear as though you have so much going on for yourself that you really could care less. This makes her want to chase you so much more because she knows that you won't be a needy guy.

16. Stand Up For Yourself

Be absolutely willing to stand up for yourself and what you believe even if a girl may disagree with it. Oftentimes, a girl will have her way with a guy because he doesn't want to take the risk of disagreeing with her and possibly losing out on the opportunity to be with her. When you can stand up for yourself even when you know that you would be disagreeing with a girl, it makes you different and thereby even more appealing. It sets you apart from other guys and that entices her to chase you.

17. Become Successful Professionally

Work hard at what you do professionally and excel. Girls tend to chase guys who have upward mobility. When she senses that you are driven and you are headed somewhere in life, it makes you that much more appealing. A girl loves to project about what it would be like to date a guy. She fantasizes about it and sees scenarios in her head. When she has positive fantasies about you and where she could be with you in the future, it makes her more likely to chase you.

18. Take Risks With Your Professional Life

Your professional life is attractive to many girls. However, when you take risks with it, it can make you even more appealing. If you start your own business or begin to work on your own independent professional projects, it makes you appear as an independent thinker. You are not following the norm like everyone else who is stuck in their 9-5 job. You are now so intriguing because she is drawn to your nature of taking risks. She even draws inspiration from that and wants to take her own chances in life.

19. Be A Leader

Be a leader at something. It could be a leader of a group or a leader of some kind of activity. Girls are very drawn to guys who lead. It has to be natural. Avoid being a leader at something that you don't care about. Find something you care about and lead. You show just how much of a catch you are when she can see how in charge you can be.

20. Be Adventurous

Having an adventurous demeanor and lifestyle can be very irresistible to ignore. Try doing activities that challenge you and get you excited. Do this within reason. You shouldn't do things that you don't really want to just to get a girl's attention. You should be committed to the adventures that you undertake and show a genuine love of them. This makes her so excited about you that she wants to be a part of your adventures. Now she wants to chase you more than ever and be a part of that excitement.

21. Treat Your Mother Well

A girl often looks at the kind of relationship a guy has with his mother in order to know if he is the kind of guy she would want to be with. If she notices that you treat your mother well and you are in constant contact with her, she will think that you are a sweetheart. She will want more to do with you because she hopes that you will treat her as well as you treat your mother. This makes her all the more likely to chase you.

22. Flirt With Her

Flirting with her can give her good idea of what kind of guy she is dealing with. She gets the impression that you are playful and even suggestive. Hence, you are not unwilling to get a little raunchy in your conversation or talk a little bit provocatively. This can do a lot to help you seem fun and exciting in her eyes and not so politically correct. The better you are at flirting, the more excited she is to see you again.

23. Flirt With Her But Leave Her Wanting More

When you are able to flirt with her just enough to get her curious but then end it and move on, you are leaving her hanging. This makes her think about you so much. She wonders why you said what you did and yet didn't elaborate. She wonders why you flirted with her with your eyes and then ignored her the rest of the night. These are the kind of thoughts that keep going through her mind on a continuous basis until she can't help but approach you or start trying to talk to you more.

24. Compliment Other Girls But Not Her

Giving other girls compliments catches her attention. She hears what you say to these girls and the kind of compliments that you give them. She wonders why you never compliment her as well. After all, she took the time out to look good today. Yet, you didn't say anything about how she looked. This subconsciously makes her intent to get your approval. She puts on extra make-up or dresses extra sexy or does whatever she feels she has to in order to get your approval.

25. Become Friendly With Her Friends

If you are both around the same social circles, start befriending her friends. You shouldn't mention her. Just act as though you are trying to get to know them better. Invite them to do things with your friends. The more you interact with her friends, the more they talk about you to her. She hears more and more about you and wonders why you have gotten close to her friends and not even introduced yourself to her. She gets curious about you and starts asking her friends more questions about you.

26. Like Other Girls Pictures On Social Media

Get into the habit of liking the pictures of other girls on social media as much as you can. Follow the likes with written compliments. If these are girls that she knows or is acquainted with, she will notice what you are doing. She wonders why you never like her pictures. She starts getting jealous. Girls are naturally self-judgmental when it comes to their looks and typically enjoy approval. If she is not getting it from you and yet you are giving it to other girls, she will try harder to get it.

27. Combine Friendliness With Aloofness

There are moments that you can be nice and friendly to her. Other moments, you can be more aloof as though she isn't there or you aren't taking much notice of her. This gets her thinking about what you are up to. Her mind is racing with questions and doubts. She doesn't know who she is going to get from one day to the next. This can be very effective in getting her to think about you a lot and even initiate contact often so as to assuage her doubts. This works in small doses. Don't do it too often.

28. Love What She Loves

Make an effort to become knowledgeable or partake in what she really loves. It could be an activity, event, pastime etc. She feels a stronger connection to you when she knows that she has that much in common with you. Also, the more unusual it is the better. In other words, if she has something unusual that she really loves and you love the same thing, her desire to chase you because of the unique connection she feels with you is very hard to ignore.

29. Remember Details From Your Conversations

Girls often complain about how guys tend not to remember details from conversations. If you remember details about conversations that you have with her, you set yourself apart from other guys. When you can remember details that she herself has even forgotten mentioning, you make her realize just how in tune you are. It warms her heart and she now wants to reveal even more about herself to you which then leads to her wanting to chase you more.

30. Listen

When she talks to you, listen. You can follow up with questions pertaining to the discussion but spend a lot of your time while she talks, listening. This makes her feel like you really value what she has to say. It makes her feel special. The more special she feels, the more likely she wants to keep experiencing it. Hence, she will chase the person that keeps giving her that feeling.

31. Be Unpredictable

People often conform to the monotony of relationships. They meet up at the same places, go to the same events, interact with the same kind of people etc. You should be unpredictable. One day you could just be doing the norm hanging out with your regular friends in the same old place, the next day, you could be climbing a mountain with strangers or going scuba diving. When you are unpredictable, she is constantly excited and guessing about you. This is what in turn pushes her to chase you.

32. Foster Close Relationships With People

The closer you are to the people in your life that matter, the more attractive you become to her. It shows her that you care about having healthy relationships. It gives her a precursor to what being in a relationship with you could be like. Girls are always thinking and projecting. They think about the future a lot and what it would be like to be in a relationship with someone long-term. When she gets the sense that you can build close relationships with the people in your life, it encourages her to chase you.

33. Leave Town For A While

Let her miss seeing you by you leaving town for a few days or more. When a girl gets so used to seeing a guy, she can become numb to him. You reawaken her interest when she realizes that she hasn't seen you in a number of days. She starts asking others about where you are. She is showing signs of missing you. When you return, she is excited by it. She feels a stronger desire to chase you and connect so that the next time you leave for a few days, you can take her with you.

34. Show Emotion

If you get really excited about something, show it. If you are not happy about something, show that. If you just want to scream because you want to relieve some stress, do that. The point is to show emotion. It gives her the impression that you are alive. It makes her feel like you are the kind that would be willing to be honest with her with your true self and feelings. This can make you very appealing in her eyes and entice her to chase you. This is especially true when she has had problems meeting a guy like this.

35. Be Handy

If you are really good at fixing things or even building things, you can become invaluable to her. You can help her build a couch or shelf or even fix something around her place. But then you also have to become unavailable to provide this kind of aid because you are helping someone else instead. In other words, you can't have her think that you will always be at her disposal when she needs help. This is where she starts to value her relationship with you even more and wants to take things further.

36. Motivate People

Motivate people to be their best. In your social circle or outside of it, make it a habit to be a motivator. This is what can really make you stand out. Too many guys don't do this because they get caught up in their own lives. Show that you can be an inspiration and motivator to someone else and your reputation will soar. Once it does, she wants more than anything to be around your energy.

37. Show A Lot Of Knowledge In Something

This is where you stimulate her intellectually. When you can talk about a particular topic in a very detailed and articulate way, it can really grab her attention. A girl appreciates a guy who has knowledge about things that she doesn't. She feels like she can learn more from him and grow as a result. This stimulates her to chase him because she feels that he has a deeper level to him besides his physical appearance.

38. Point Out Her Weaknesses Constructively

When you point out her weaknesses, you open her eyes. Even better yet, when you follow that up with constructive advice on how she can improve, you make yourself invaluable to her. She appreciates the honesty because she probably doesn't even get that kind of honesty from her closest friends. This is how she begins to trust you more and starts wondering about what it would be like to be with you. These are the seeds of thought that eventually lead to her chasing you.

39. Have Good Relationships With Your Ex-Girlfriends

It can be hard to maintain good relationships with past girlfriends if there were strong differences. However, it is beneficial to keep those relationships healthy. When she notices this, she realizes that you are fair and don't hold grudges. This makes you look good and gives her more of a reassurance that you would treat her well if she were ever to become your girlfriend. If she is already having thoughts about being your girlfriend, she is on her way to chasing you.

40. Give Her Your Number Instead

Many girls prefer that a guy asks them for their number. However, you can turn the tables on a girl and it can work very effectively in getting her to chase you. By giving her your number instead of asking for hers, you put her in the driver's seat. If she initiates contact, she has began the process of chasing you as long as you are able to keep her motivated to continue. This entails having really fun conversations that make her laugh. The good conversations lead to her wanting more so she continues to initiate contact.

41. Do Her Occasional Favors

If she needs a ride somewhere from time to time, give her one. If she needs you to pick something up for her at the post office, do it. These are small favors but they are having an impact on her. Eventually she asks for even more favors and this is where you tell her that she would have to do something for you first and leave it to her to figure out. This is when she really has to work in order to keep you in her life because she knows your worth.

42. Be Open About Your Insecurities

A lot of guys think that by letting a girl know about their insecurities that they are less desirable because they look weak. This couldn't be further from the truth. When you are open about talking about your insecurities, she feels more of a connection to you and suddenly feels the impactful emotion of wanting to fix things or help your situation. This works best in small doses. In essence, don't unload all of your insecurities all at once on her. That could be too much too soon.

43. Be Invested In Her Dreams

She may have dreams of becoming something more in life or reaching a particular goal. Your true concern that she attains her dreams can have a very powerful effect in her life. She begins to believe that you truly care about the path she chooses to go on in life. It allows her to visualize what that path would be like with you in it. Now she needs more of your support and she can't help but contact you on a more and more frequent basis.

44. Get Close To Her Family

The closer you get to her family, the more she hears about you from them. When they are singing your praises, she can't help but wonder what it would be like if you were a permanent fixture in her life. She doesn't always have to be around when you are building a relationship with them. If there is someone in her family that you have found commonality with, you can hang out with that person independently. At some point, she wants you around her even more because her family can't stop talking about you.

45. Give Her Snippets Of Your Interesting Life Story

In order to keep her guessing and wanting more from you, tell her your interesting life story but keep it brief. You have to give her snippets of your interesting storyline so that she can ponder on it later on, desperate to learn the rest. This is how you keep her coming back and constantly wanting more from you.

46. Be Mysterious

This does tie into giving her interesting snippets of your life story over time. However, it also means that she can't always read you. You don't have to always be entirely clear about something. You could give a viewpoint about a particular issue with very good explanations and then turn around and give the opposite viewpoint with just as many justifiable reasons. This leaves her trying to figure out which one you are and what you are all about. You become a mystery. A mystery that she wants to unfold.

47. Get Selfish From Time To Time

When you feel like you just want to go off and do your own thing, don't be afraid to do it. Even if there had been mutterings of a meet-up but nothing solid was set up, feel free to get committed to something else for the weekend or the night. She then wonders what you are doing and if you are thinking about her. This makes her want you even more.

48. Tell Her That You Aren't Looking For Anything Serious

If you have struck up a friendship with her and occasionally get into conversations about relationships in general, tell her that you aren't looking for anything serious at this time with anyone. She may agree with your sentiment. However, you may have planted the seed of interest in her. By not looking for anything serious at this time with anyone, you suddenly become a prize. You are free and unattached. There is a natural inclination for human beings to want what they can't have.

49. Spend Stretches Of Time With Her And Then Go Do Your Own Thing For A While

As friends, you could have the most amazing day with her where you both shopped together, had lunch and even went for a swim. Then you are gone for days. She wonders why you aren't answering her calls.

Later, you tell her that you have been busy. She wants to have another day just like the last but you tell her that you aren't sure when you will have the time. She is bummed. She wants more time with you and may not even realize that she is the one who is beginning to chase you in need of your company.

50. Turn Down Some Of Her Social Invites

If she is in the habit of only inviting you over when she is doing a get-together with a bunch of her other friends, turn her down from time to time. Let her know that you have a prior engagement and can't make it. She notices that you are absent. She may even send you a message later on letting you know that you missed a great party. You respond by telling her that you had fun where you were at. The more she feels that you have something better to do, the more she wants to win you over by chasing you.

CLICK HERE TO DOWNLOAD MORE EBOOKS.

DatingLogic.net